

LOGAN.

LOGAN, UTAH. — MAR. 2, 1896.

Hours is Visitor.

Logan's best vocalists and instrumentalists united to give a grand concert on Saturday evening in honor of the visiting legislators and their friends, which unfortunately, the early departure of their special train prevented the great majority from hearing. A few, however, remained and enjoyed the treat, and the military band which followed it. One entertainment thirteen hours. It was a most successful affair, all of which were rendered in high artistic measure. The hall was given by the college cadets and No. G. U. in the grandstand, and they were joined in the program by the loggers until 12 o'clock. The time was short, but none of it was wasted. Logan is always pleased to receive such distinguished visitors, and the ways were opened for the best of social activity. The expressions of admiration from visitors were numerous, hearty and pleasing to their hosts.

Court Proceedings.

On Friday afternoon the Parry divorce case was argued before Judge Hart in the district court. Most doubt exists as to whether or not a decree would be issued, as there was no delay in the trial, but the plaintiff, Anna H. Parry, was visiting the country, and the court adjourned at noon, with the understanding that she would be present at the next session. During the remainder of the session and on Saturday morning no orders were made to present cases. Court adjourned at noon, and the State Bar Association adjourned for Rambunctious, where a session will be held commencing today. Under the State law Judge Hart will be called at some time during the session of the court for the examination of the condemned murderer, Farren Coughlin.

Hercules Power Co.

Moore, L. J. and W. N. Sims and A. M. Wrenzel visited Logan for the purpose of inspecting the work already done by the Hercules Power Co., in which they are now interested. They gathered with the idea that the generators were being run, and that they were executing a similar scheme, to their home in Telluride, Colo., that the civil engineer employed by the system, who has been much surprised here, had been sent to Telluride to inspect the work. The generators had named as members of a syndicate engaged in the erection of light and power plants in a number of places in the intermountain region.

Notes.

At the request of the defendant a jury was impaneled to try the witness for bringing him up on the stand when he did not know the exact name of the gentleman he was testifying. He had been released on his own recognizance, and simply "look & walk." It will probably be necessary for him to return during the competency of the presiding official.

A shooting match, the first held in Cache county, took place in the Pavilion at the Desert on Saturday night. There were three battles, in each of which the thoroughly game contestants, who were the best marksmen, were followed to the country by a large committee of sympathizing friends.
